

Chief Risk Advisor

This is a unique opportunity for an operational and enterprise risk professional with a passion for complex problem solving and relationship management.

- Contract Position until February 2025
- Utilise your risk and compliance experience whilst enjoying a work-life balance
- Build effective relationships with internal stakeholders and decision makers
- Drive the delivery of mature contemporary and effective non-financial risk management and compliance practices throughout Western Australian Treasury Corporation (WATC).

The Opportunity:

Following a recent secondment, a unique opportunity has arisen for an experienced Chief Risk Advisor to join WATC's Risk Branch.

Working closely with the Chief Risk Officer, this senior appointment will partner with the business providing specialist operational and compliance related advice to key internal stakeholders and will oversee the provision of assessments for the risks to which WATC is exposed.

The Chief Risk Advisor guides the delivery of a risk and compliance management function to manage the non-financial risks of the Corporation. A key focus of the role, in conjunction with the Chief Risk Officer, is to continue to drive the development and delivery of a mature contemporary, integrated, efficient and effective risk management (with a focus on non-financial risk) and compliance practices throughout WATC.

The role works at a strategic level within the business to assist in strengthening and broadening operational risk understanding and supporting a strong risk culture across all teams. It also provides risk management advice to the Board, Chief Executive Officer and Management Committees, under the Chief Risk Officer's direction.

Key accountabilities of the role include:

- Monitoring the operational environments for potential risk events and potential risk related impacts, and recommending action to protect WATC's position where deemed appropriate;
- Maintaining and developing enhancements to WATC's Business Continuity Plan and testing program to support operational resilience;
- Supervising, directing and developing team members as required; and
- Collaborating with team members, internal stakeholders and clients on projects as required.

This role offers an exciting opportunity to use your expert compliance knowledge, provide impactful advice on projects and processes that benefit WA while also prioritising work-life balance. It is a great role for someone who loves complex problem solving, analytical thinking and building relationships across the business whilst working for an organisation that actively supports a good work-life balance.

About You:

WATC is seeking someone with a positive and approachable attitude, who enjoys working collaboratively, welcomes the opportunity to mentor and share knowledge, and is passionate about being a part of the WATC Risk team. Your proactive approach and ability to remain agile in a dynamic environment will be key to your success in the role.

WATC's ideal candidate will be a critical thinker, with experience building and maintaining relationships and an ability to enhance others' understanding of risk. WATC is seeking someone who can demonstrate a combination of the following skills, qualifications and experience:

- A tertiary qualification in finance, commerce, economics or any other relevant discipline;
- A minimum of five (5) years' experience in a senior role in a financial market or relevant risk management environment;
- Highly developed knowledge of contemporary compliance management practices and trends including maintenance of compliance plans and ability to interpret legislation;
- Well-developed knowledge of Business Continuity Lifecycle;
- Sound knowledge of contemporary governance practices;
- Skills in influencing, motivating and persuading others;
- Well-developed written communication skills, demonstrated through preparation of business cases, reports and correspondence (including Board and Committee report writing);
- Strong interpersonal and communication skills within an internal client relationship context; and
- A flexible, 'can-do' attitude to work.
